

Ridgway Receives Approval

His Appointment Merits Applause, But Gen. Clark's Faces Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Matthew Ridgway's appointment to succeed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as commander in chief of the U. S. Army in Europe, and Gen. Mark Clark, who gets Ridgway's old command, faced criticism in Congress.

In the Pentagon, the top-level reassignments—Ridgway from Far East command to head of Allied forces in Europe, and Clark from chief of Army Field Forces to Far East command—were viewed by some officials as:

1. Results of a decision by President Truman to side with Gen. Omar Bradley instead of Eisenhower in choosing the new commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) forces.

2. Rewards to both Ridgway and Clark for past jobs well done.

The criticism of Clark came from Sen. Long (D-La.), a member of the Armed Services Committee. He told a reporter he wants to review previous congressional investigations of Clark's World War II record and may ask for a new inquiry.

Clark's crossing of the Rapido River during the Italian campaign has been under previous congressional fire. Bitter criticism of the maneuver was voiced by members of the Texas National Guard, which suffered heavy casualties.

Criticism Over Tactics

"I was in that area with the Navy at the time of the Rapido crossing," Long said, "and I know that many of the officers with whom I associated did not think that Clark's ability as a field commander."

"What we need in Korea now is a field commander, not a diplomat, and I have some reservations about the Clark appointment."

However, Sen. McFarland of Arizona, the Democratic leader, said he does not look for any serious Senate attempt to block either Ridgway's or Clark's new assignments. The Army believes no Congressional action is needed for the shift.

Connally: "No Comment"

Neither Texas senator, Democrats Connally or Lyndon Johnson, would comment on Clark's appointment.

Gen. Bradley, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, reportedly favored Ridgway as NATO chief. Eisenhower, who steps down about June 1 amid a boom for his nomination as Republican candidate for President, is known to have wanted his chief of staff, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, as his successor.

Gruenther will stay on as Ridgway's chief of staff.

The idea that Truman was rewarding Ridgway and Clark was explained in military circles this way: Ridgway's handling of the Korean War helped quiet the storm, kicked up by the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Far East chief, which threatened to drive the administration into serious political trouble. Clark's adroit withdrawal as Vatican ambassador-nominee did much to quiet the ruckus over proposed creation of that post.

Expect Quick NATO OK

Quick approval of Truman's choice was expected in other NATO nations. Except for the Communists, praise for Ridgway was widespread in Europe. Reds in France called Ridgway "the man of germ warfare" and said his appointment was "a brutal deft to European public opinion."

No strong objection to Ridgway's appointment was voiced in Congress. Generally it was applauded, though some lawmakers, like Sen. Wiley (R-Wis)—seemingly appointed that Gruenther did not get the job, Gruenther favorably impressed Congress members when he testified on foreign aid.

Wiley, senior Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, said: Gruenther Well Fitted

"With his intimate contacts at Lisbon and other NATO conferences and as an understudy for Eisenhower, Gen. Gruenther fitted into the position ideally."

Rep. Shafer (R-Mich.), of the House Armed Services Committee, commented that Clark was more familiar with European conditions and Ridgway with Far Eastern affairs "so they shift them just the opposite way." Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) and Rep. Smith (R-Wis) voiced similar criticisms.

Soviet Planes Fire on French Plane, Wound 2

Liner Lands Safe With 39 Bullet Holes In Fuselage

BERLIN (AP)—Two Soviet jet fighters fired on an Air France plane in the Russian zone of Germany today, wounding two German passengers and leaving 39 bullet holes in the fuselage.

The plane landed safely at Tempelhof Air Base.

The Air France office in Frankfurt identified the wounded as Mrs. Irmgard Nebel, Frankfurt, hit in the abdomen, and Walter Kurth, Bad Homburg, wounded in the arm and thigh. They were taken to hospitals.

Allied officials in Bonn at once temporarily canceled all flights of Allied civil aircraft into Berlin.

The U. S. High Commission said an official protest also had been made to the Russians at the four-power air traffic control center in Berlin.

Air France said there was a total of 11 passengers on the plane, none of them American. The aircraft, a four-engine DC-4, was on its regular run from Frankfurt to Berlin through the air corridor established by four-power agreement.

The Russian Air Safety Center scheduled posted this morning listed training flights from the jet base, at Koethen, from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. The weather was bright and sunny.

Soviet planes have frequently sallied into the 20-mile wide air corridors reserve for Berlin-West Germany flights but have not been regarded lately as a nuisance.

Shortly before the 1948-49 blockade of Berlin, Russian fighters were more daring and a series of "buzzing" incidents was climaxed by a Yak fighter ramming into a British liner, killing 11 occupants.

U. S. airmen said Soviet air patrols in the Russian Zone are well-briefed on Allied rights in the three 20-mile air corridors between Berlin and Western Germany.

They said the approach of a MIG fighter to inspect a foreign aircraft is a frequent occurrence, but a "pass" by two fighters at the same time was "criminally foolish" even if there was no gunfire.

Fortunately, none of the 89 bullets which hit the fuselage struck a vital spot of the liner.

The pilot of the attacked plane said the two jet fighters made four "passes" at his ship as he was flying precisely in the center of the air corridor. The fighters unloaded bursts of machinegun and cannon fire, he said.

The co-pilot and steward were nicked by bullets and their clothing was torn, but their injuries were only superficial.

Report New UN Compromise Plan Has Been Offered

CHICAGO (AP)—The Sun-Times, in a copyright dispatch from Washington, said today that a new United Nations compromise for a Korean truce has been offered to the Communists.

The story by Frederick Kuh, said, "Put plainly, the U. N. offer is this: If Communist China and North Korea agree to the non-return of two out of every five war prisoners in Allied captivity, the U. N. Command will let the Reds build airfields in North Korea after a truce is signed."

The Sun-Times said the U. N. offer was made Monday at a full dress meeting of the principal negotiators at Panmunjom. It followed long, intensive discussions in the U. S. Defense and State Departments, Kuh wrote, adding, "It is believed to have received the approval of President Truman and the National Security Council."

The Communist high command, the Chinese and North Korean governments, presumably also Moscow, are now considering the U. N. proposal," the Sun-Times said.

"Will the Communists agree to the nonreturn of some 70,000 of their captured men in exchange for the right to work on North Korean airfields during an armistice of indefinite duration?"

"Allied experts in Washington think there is better than a 50-50 chance that after further tough bargaining an armistice will be agreed to on lines close to the new U. N. offer."

Judge Grants Injunction To Stop Steel Mill Seizure

WASHINGTON, April 29 (AP)—Federal Judge David A. Pine today granted preliminary injunctions to restrain the government from carrying out the steel industry seizure any longer.

Pine said the seized steel companies would not be able to recover possible damages from seizure.

"The damages are irreparable," he declared.

He ruled the government's seizure of the steel industry was illegal as he granted five major steel companies a temporary injunction ordering "maintenance of the status quo as of the date of the wrongful acts complained of."

In effect, this bars the government from going ahead and giving the CIO steelworkers the pay recommended by the Wage Stabilization Board.

Pine said that President Truman's seizure was "unauthorized by law."

And the judge specifically turned down contentions by the government's lawyer as to the extent of the Presidents' executive power.

The government contended a steel strike threatened an emergency and that the president had "inherent" powers to seize the mills and prevent one.

Rejecting that contention with sharp language, Pine's opinion said:

"I believe that the contemplated strike, if it came, with all its awful results, would be less injurious to the public than the injury which would flow from a timorous judicial recognition that there is some basis for this claim to unlimited and unrestrained executive power, which would be implicit in a failure to grant the injunction."

"Such recognition would undermine public confidence in the very edifice of government as it is known under the constitution."

Although Pine's ruling would require the government to end its seizure of the mills, this may not be the immediate direct result.

Government attorneys were ready to ask the U. S. Court of Appeals to stay the order.

A quick appeal to the Supreme Court also appeared likely.

Pine's decision — if it brought an end of the government seizure — would mean that the CIO Steelworkers Union could go out on strike, since their status as government employees would be ended.

At the White House it was said there would be no comment on Judge Pine's decision — at least none today.

After specifically holding that the acts of Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, acting under the President's seizure order, were "illegal," Pine said:

"On this premise, why are the plaintiffs (steel companies) to be deprived of their property and required to suffer further irreparable damage until answers to the complaints are filed and the cases are at issue and are reached for hearing on their merits?"

"Nothing that could be submitted at such trial on the facts would alter the legal conclusion I have reached."

Pine said that Article 2 of the constitution "shows the utter fallacy" of the claim of great "inherent" powers of the President.

"Neither singly nor in the aggregate do they (the powers under this article) grant the President, expressly or impliedly, the 'inherent' power which government lawyers claimed for him, Pine's decision said."

"The non-existence of this 'inherent' power in the President has been recognized by eminent writers, and I cite in this connection the unequivocal language of the late Chief Justice Taft."

He quoted the former chief justice, father of Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) as saying in 1916:

"The true view of the executive function is, as I conceive it, that the president can exercise no power which cannot be fairly and reasonably traced to some specific grant of power or justly implied and included within such express grant as proper and necessary to its exercise."

"Such specific grant must be either in the federal constitution or in an act of Congress passed in pursuance thereof."

Even before Pine's ruling, the government's chief attorney had backed away from his original contentions as to Truman's powers.

Massive List of Candidates Piles Up for State Election

More Than 60 Already Seeking State's 11 Seats In Congress, Running at Large Since GOP's Forced Referendum Vote

JEFFERSON CITY, (AP)—The list of candidates running on statewide tickets in Missouri this year has grown by leaps and bounds.

With the filing deadline tonight the number of candidates seeking the 11 congressional seats had passed 60. Normally, congressional candidates run by districts. But this year the Republicans forced a referendum on the new redistricting law. Pending the result of the referendum, all congressional candidates must run at large.

Other statewide races in the primary elections include those for governor, U. S. senator, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer and attorney general.

All of them had several candidates. The list to date:

U. S. Senator—

W. E. Taylor, Democrat, Chillicothe; William McKinley Thomas, Republican, St. Louis; George C. Slaughter, Democrat, Hannibal; Stuart Symington, Republican, Cape Girardeau; James P. Kennen, Republican, Kansas City; Henry W. Genick, Socialist-Labor, St. Louis; John A. Johnson, Democrat, Ellington; Hiram Groby, Republican, St. Louis.

Ask Wilson To Tell Why He Resigned

Senate Banking Committee Calls In Ex-Mobilizer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Banking Committee called in Charles E. Wilson today to tell under oath "the inside story" of why he quit as defense mobilizer in a row over administration handling of the steel dispute.

The committee is conducting its own investigation of the steel case, with a view toward possible drastic revisions of the Defense Production Act, which forms the basis for price, wage, rent and credit controls and the rationing of materials to industry.

Wilson contends the White House bypassed him "nine ways from Sunday" in handling the dispute and embarrassed him by a sudden switch in policy.

Sen. Maybank (D-S.C.), the committee chairman, announced Wilson "undoubtedly will be asked about the details" of that contention and a variety of other matters.

A Republican committee member, Sen. Schoepfel (Kan.), told a reporter he wants Wilson's "sworn views on whether he believes a settlement of the steel strike on the terms now proposed will precipitate new rounds of wage increases, price increases and inflation."

Wilson's appearance at a closed-door meeting of the committee took the play on Capitol Hill, where congressional wrath over seizure of the steel industry has set off a move and sparked a variety of investigations.

Maybank predicted "some very frank talk" between Wilson and committee members. He promised to make public a transcript of the question-and-answer testimony, which he said would be given under oath. He said he hoped the printed record would be ready by tomorrow.

The committee plans to question spokesmen for the CIO steelworkers union tomorrow morning, and steel industry officials in the afternoon.

Maybank told a reporter the group may call off play for a May Day public session Thursday at which spokesmen for the industry, the union and government agencies would be free to question one another before the committee.

"I would produce nothing but a row, I feel confident of that," Maybank said. "I'm going to ask the committee whether it cares to reconsider the vote calling the round-table meeting. Nothing can be gained by pouring oil on fires of controversy already blazing to the skies."

Bankston was in the Naval Hospital at Charleston, S.C., because of a back injury received a couple of weeks earlier. When his family in Atlanta received word that he was among the Hobson's missing, they telephoned the hospital and found he was there.

MISSING DESTROYER COMMANDER — Lieut. Comdr. William J. Tierney, 31-year-old captain of the U. S. S. Hobson, Navy destroyer-minesweeper sunk in mid-Atlantic after a collision with the Aircraft Carrier Wasp, among those missing.

Tierney, who entered the Navy as an enlisted man, won his commission in 1941.

Formal Probe Of Ship Crash Killing 174

Damaged Carrier Hobbles to Port With 61 Survivors

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy arranged today for a formal inquiry into the mid-Atlantic sinking of the destroyer-minesweeper Hobson with an apparent loss of 174 lives. It was one of the worst peacetime disasters in American naval history.

Meanwhile, the 27,100-ton aircraft carrier Wasp, damaged in the Saturday night collision that sent the Hobson to the bottom, steamed slowly home. She carried the minesweeper's 61 survivors, some of them injured seriously.

Traveling between eight to 10 knots, the carrier was expected to reach Brooklyn Navy Yard for repairs on Friday or Saturday.

The original list of 176 missing in the tragedy was reduced by two when two sailors whose names appeared on it turned up safe. They had missed their ship's last voyage—one man being home on leave, the other in a naval hospital. No casualties were reported aboard the Wasp.

There still was some confusion over the exact number missing because of a duplication of at least two names.

Originally Listed 176

Adm. Lynde McCormick, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Fleet, announced in Norfolk that a formal court of inquiry would "make a full investigation of the facts and circumstances surrounding the sinking."

A demand for a congressional probe came from the father of one of the missing men, who said his son had told him all the enlisted men aboard the Hobson feared she "would crack up, either in heavy seas or by hitting something in the water."

Ervin S. White Sr. of Lynn, Mass., said his son told him the ship broke down several times while on cruises and was in drydock last March and again in April.

"I intend to have my congressman ask the Navy some questions to find out why it continues to operate ships in such poor shape," he declared. "A thing like this might happen again."

Rev. Adm. W. V. O'Regan, issued a statement in Norfolk denying a published report that the Hobson was unfit for sea duty. He said the ship had been inspected carefully April 2 and $24,000 had been spent in bringing her "up to the high standards demanded by the Board of Inspection and Safety."

50 On Long Missing Stratocruiser Lost Over Brazil Jungle

Luxury Airliner, Worth 1 1/2 Million, Left Rio for Trinidad Monday Night; Last Heard From Just After Midnight

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP)—A Pan American stratocruiser with 50 persons aboard was overdue here today and was reported missing over Brazilian jungle territory.

The 1 1/2 million dollar Boeing plane, a luxury ship flying the El Presidente route from Rio de Janeiro to New York, was carrying 41 passengers and a crew of nine, Pan American Airways reported.

The stratocruiser is the first of a southbound search. Three other that type to be reported missing.

It left Rio at 11:07 p. m. (8:07 p. m. CST) Monday.

It was due here at 8 a. m. (CST) today. Pan American said its last radio communication was with Barreiras, Brazil, at 12:15 a. m. (CST.)

Army, Navy Aid Search

At New York the company said the U. S. Army and Navy and the Brazilian Air Force were assisting in an attempt to locate the plane.

A Pan American airliner crashed off San Juan, Puerto Rico, last April 11 taking a total of 32 lives. The pilot, Capt. John C. Burn, husband of singer Jane Froman, was among the 17 survivors.

The flight from Rio de Janeiro to Port of Spain covers 2,600 miles. It is about 700 miles from Rio to the radio station at Barreiras in Bahia State, Brazil.

Luxurious Airliner

The stratocruiser, named the Clipper, Good Hope, one of the most luxurious planes in world-wide service, offers passengers berth service and fancy meals with drinks. Pan American operates 29 of the Boeing planes.

The territory where it was reported missing consists largely of heavy jungle. Pan American said its last communication was with a radio station at Barreiras, Bahia State, Brazil, at 1:15 a. m. (EST.)

Search Entire Route

Pan American announced that aircraft from the U. S. Navy and Air Force, the Brazilian Air Force and civilian lines were searching the entire 1,900-mile route between Barreiras and Port of Spain.

River Starts Receding Across State

20,000 Persons Displaced; Flood 630,000 Acres

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Missouri River flood was slowly dropping today after covering 630,000 acres of lowlands between Rulo, Neb., and its mouth near St. Charles, Mo.

The army engineers estimated not more than 17,000 additional acres would be flooded if weather bureau predictions hold.

The engineers said 9,450 persons have been displaced between Rulo and Kansas City and 10,500 below Kansas City.

The areas flooded include 168,400 acres in the St. Joseph area north of Kansas City. Below Kansas City, 256,000 acres are inundated in the Napoleon area, 116,300 in the Glasgow and 89,000 in the Washington areas.

E. C. Corkill, river forecaster, said Kansas City with a stage of 21 feet, a drop of 1.6 feet since yesterday and 9.3 feet below last Tuesday's crest, is the only point within banks below Nebraska City.

Here the river is expected to fall a foot or more a day for several days. Theoretical flood level is 22 feet.

In Kansas City, Corkill said, the river was kept from flooding by high levees. Hence there is no flooded area from which the water has to flow back into the river.

Below Kansas City, the river is expected to fall sharply in the next few days for the next day or two at Glasgow and for the next three days at Boonville, and then drop more rapidly at both points.

Readings today with flood stage in parentheses:

Lexington, 26.7 feet (22), fall of 1.1 since yesterday.

Glasgow, 31.7 feet (23), fall of 3; crested 27.7 Sunday.

Boonville, 27.2 feet (21), fall of 3; crested 27.7 Sunday.

Jefferson City, 25.9 feet (23), fall of 2; crested 26.6 Sunday.

St. Joseph, 20.4 feet (17), fall of 8.

Challenge To Christian Women To Unite For Better World

By MRS. FRED ROSE

815 West Third

Very briefly and in part I hope to set forth the aims, responsibilities and reasons for the United Council of Church Women—most of all I wish I might bring to church women "a challenge" that would unloose the vast reservoir of power which is within the Christian women of our nation.

So many things are confronting us as a community and nation. Women hold the balance of power, since statistics show almost 2 million more women than men there by, placing upon us the responsibility of decision. But, no matter how good our aims and intentions as long as we are contented, and our action remains dormant, we are throwing our influence—the deciding influence, with, negative forces which are always on the alert.

We are so terribly busy and concerned about things "within" individual churches, that we fail to heed the need and appeal for a "united" Christian front in the interest of God's Kingdom within our community, nation and world.

These days we hear so much of "influence" women through their inherent place in the home, are, or should be, directly and indirectly the most influential factor in moral life and policy making in the world.

The mothers of today, are laying the foundations and molding the lives "for" the influence of tomorrow.

Through the unity of all Christian women we can voice our desires, for the things Christianity should be, directly and indirectly the most influential factor in moral life and policy making in the world.

stands for, and then, through this unity, our influence will be incorporated in community and national policies. Recognition, is not given, it is earned, therefore if our dividends of recognition are to be large, we must not falter, but, united, press on for our ideals and goals, that which is good and spiritually inspired. We must stand together in unity—we must stand for "something".

All civilized people recognize right and wrong to some extent, but it is the responsibility of Christian women to champion the causes of right and to keep the light of Christ's life conspicuously in the foreground.

The greatest hurdle is to enlist Christian women 100 per cent in a "united" action. This unity of Christian women, each militant in action and with a prayer on her lips would bring about a great reckoning.

Women affiliated with the United Council of Church Women must have a vivid consciousness that the UC of CW is not, a separate and distinct group or organization, but a part, a wholesome part, of their own church life and work; where "all" Christian women are working in a "oneness" in the furtherance of God's Kingdom.

Denominational names, races and nationalities are in God's Kingdom, merely designations of Allied groups.

We have confronting us as a community and nation many problems. One of the greatest and most dangerous to our Christian way of life is communism, which thrives on racial problems, equal and unhealthy thinking. We cannot discuss these in full, time is not sufficient, never-the-less we cannot, escape their evils.

The problems and responsibilities, we face as a Christian nation are a challenge to our individual personal living, in order to maintain the stability of a great nation, God, has so generously blessed. We must keep foremost in our thinking the warning that through his great nations who "forgot" God were destroyed and overcome.

The evils of the community, nation and world will only be controlled and overcome through the "one effective challenge" a deep and abiding spiritual revival—evils, cannot be legislated out of existence, Christian people must rise as a unit and accept their personal responsibilities and give "united" battle against lowering moral standards and policies.

The United Council of Church Women is one of the members of the organization of United Council of Churches of America, which is striving, to rally, this unity—will you, as individuals, join the millions of other Christian women in this united Christian challenge?

Mrs. Summers Honored With Stork Shower

By Mrs. George Adams

BEAMAN — Mrs. C. W. Summers was honored with a stork shower Wednesday at the home of Mrs. E. L. Birdsong. Approximately 25 guests were present. A stork, with ribbons in its mouth leading to each gift, centered the table. Refreshments were served.

Fred and Ron Rollins, Sedalia, spent a few days last week with their grandparents, Judge and Mrs. E. L. Birdsong.

Treasury Has New Bond Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Treasury today revamped its entire multi-billion-dollar savings bond program, raising interest rates all along the line.

Sale of two of the current series of savings bonds — F and G bonds — will be discontinued effective Thursday. But three new types of bonds will be offered.

The familiar series "E" defense bonds — the type held by most individuals — will be continued.

But interest rates for the full period of the bond will be raised from 2.9 per cent to 3 per cent.

And buyers will get a much bigger increase in interest rates over the first few years they hold the bond.

The changes will not affect "E" bonds already sold unless the bondholder wants to keep his bond after it matures. In that case, he will get the new interest rate of 3 per cent.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder said the many changes are designed to improve the bond program "in keeping with the times" — apparently a reference to increased commercial interest rates.

Snyder said a sampling of opinion has indicated the changes "will be very popular."

The biggest innovation will be issuance of an "H" bond to be sold, like the "E" bond, only to individuals.

The "E" bond is bought at a fixed price, amounting to three-fourths of its face value. A $25 bond, for instance, costs $18.75 and matures 10 years later at $25 value.

The "H" bond, however, will pay off in checks to be delivered to the bondholder twice a year. It will be sold at par — and will mature at par — and the smallest denomination will be a $500 bond.

The Treasury said "H" bonds of lesser amount would not be practical because of the expense of handling semi-annual interest payments.

The "H" bond's interest rate will be 3 per cent over a 10-year period but the initial checks will not reflect that large a rate.

A table showed that a $1,000 H-bond would bring a $4 interest check after six months, a $12.50 interest check for each of the next seven six-month periods and then a $17 check every half year for the remaining six years.

National Music Week Observance Here May 4-11

The 29th annual observance of National Music Week will be held May 4-11. It is being sponsored locally by the Helen G. Steele Music Club under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ernest Liebel.

The cooperation of clubs and civic groups, churches, schools and youth groups, is solicited to pay tribute to music as one of the great cultural forces of life. Music's long association with religion, home and community life, its aid in releasing tension and fostering the cooperative spirit is well known.

The keynote of this year's observance is "Make Your Life Musical." This includes both self-expression, through singing and playing, and more active appreciative listening.

Since 1924, when the first synchronized observance was held, this project to stimulate musical interest and progress has made its way into more than 4,000 communities all over the country. The quality of choral and instrumental music has advanced to the point where there can be no doubt of the position the United States holds in the world of music or of the devotion of the people to music.

Hold Union Shop Ruling Quite Legal
WASHINGTON (AP)—The chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board told a House committee today "there can be no question" about the board's legal right to recommend a union shop for the CIO steelworkers union.

That recommendation, plus the board's endorsement of a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase for the union, set off a round of objections from both houses of Congress, including a move aimed at the impeachment of President Truman who seized the industry when it balked at the WSB terms.

The board chairman, Nathan P. Feinsinger, a former professor at the University of Wisconsin, appeared before the House Banking Committee today to make a strong plea for continuation of the present controls law, due to expire June 30 unless Congress extends it.

As for the wage board's position, Feinsinger noted: "The difference is over the wisdom, not the legality, of the board's recommendations."

Feinsinger told the committee that if Congress knocks out price and wage controls — or seriously weakens them — it will be "virtually impossible" to keep prices stabilized.

Two other key figures in the government's wage-price program went to bat for controls.

Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall told the committee that if Congress allows the controls law to expire, the cost of living will go to a new record and that this nation will face another wave of scare buying and speculative inflation.

Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam asked that controls be extended for two years. The country, he said, faces "strong pressure for more inflation" and that "71 per cent of the average family budget" goes for items selling at or within two per cent of peak levels reached in 1951.

U.S. C. of C. Hears Demand to Abolish WSB or Its Power
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Chamber of Commerce today heard a demand for abolition of the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB), which the chamber was told, soon will "capitulate" to wage demands of oil and aluminum workers and coal miners.

"Employers themselves will do a better job of stabilizing wages than the board has done," Theodore T. Eiserman, New York attorney, told a chamber session on government controls.

Congress should at least remove WSB's dispute-settling powers, Eiserman said, and "it might well go further and abolish the board altogether."

Eiserman said the WSB has demonstrated to unions they can gain more both in wages and in compulsory unionism by taking their disputes to the board than by bargaining and striking.

Two More Parties File State Slates
JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The Socialist and Progressive parties today filed partial slates of candidates for state office.

Paul Markway, chief clerk in the secretary of state's office, said they would be held up for routine check of their right to the ballot. Since they have no primary opposition, they will go on the ballot until November's general election, anyway.

The Progressive Party's slate: For U.S. senator — Haven P. Perkins, for governor — Howard R. Edsall, for lieutenant governor — Sol Derman, and for Congress — Clara Perkins, all from St. Louis. Mrs. Perkins filed by district. That may throw her declaration out because all candidates apparently must run at large this year, Markway suggested.

For senator — Joseph G. Hodges, for governor — Maurice R. Wheeler, for lieutenant governor — E. F. Moore, and for treasurer — Elizabeth Erbe. All are from St. Louis except Moore. He listed his home as Kansas City.

Big Mo Swaps Airport for Town On Mo-Kan Line

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—The caravans Missouri River's historic flood, now rolling toward the Mississippi, swapped a small Kansas town for a Missouri air field.

Engineers said the Big Muddy cut a new channel as it roared past St. Joseph last week. As a result, Elwood, Kan., (pop. 1,200) is now in Missouri and St. Joseph's Rosecrans Air Field is now on an island in Kansas.

The river is the state boundary from Kansas City north. However, Lt. Col. George W. Bennett, assistant district chief of Army Engineers, said Kansas will get Elwood back. Piling will be driven to block the new channel and force the Missouri into its old bed at Elwood.

But the air field presents a tougher problem. Bennett said the engineers didn't know whether it would be worth the time and money to try to reclaim it.

If Controls Law Dies US Living Cost Will Soar

WASHINGTON (AP)—Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall testified today that if Congress lets the economic controls law die June 30 the cost-of-living will zoom to record levels.

Even with controls, Arnall said, "we shall be doing very well if we can avoid a new peak in consumer prices during the next six or nine months."

Without controls, he added, there would be another wave of scare buying and speculative inflation such as followed the Korean outbreak. He predicted a rise in prices and said the cost of living would shoot because it is "the most significant factor affecting the wage level."

In a prepared statement for the House Banking Committee, Arnall urged Congress to extend and strengthen the Defense Production act, which expires June 30. The committee is considering extension of this law, the base for price stabilization and other controls measures.

Several Arrested For Fishing Without Having Mo. License

Ladonna Olsen and Betty Jo Appleman, both of Sedalia, were each fined $1 and costs by Magistrate Don U. Wilson at Booneville when they appeared to answer charges of fishing without licenses. Darrell Dean Pearson, Latham, Monday paid a similar fine on that charge.

G. S. Wisner, Syracuse, was fined $5 and costs Saturday on a charge of exceeding the daily limit on black perch.

All were handed tickets by Conservation Agent William Stuesse.

Phog Allen Accuses 'University' of Having Summer Sports Mill

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A university of "high academic standing" was accused last night by Dr. Forrest C. Allen, coach of the University of Kansas basketball team, of conducting a summer athletic mill for prospective football and basketball players.

But he declined to name the school. Allen here to address a district Rotary Club convention, said in an interview.

"The new rule now in effect in the major conferences, including the Big Seven, which allows alumni full access and freedom of contacting boys coming up from high schools while denying coaches the same right is being abused."

This school, which subscribes fully to the North Central Association's ruling, is setting up illegitimate summer camp for its prospective high school athletic material far from the locale of the interested university."

Allen said the school he speaks of is a very large university with an outstanding athletic record. He added: "I'm announcing my knowledge of this camp publicly in hope the school will clear the situation."

MoPac Resumes Runs As Floods Recede

LEAVENWORTH, Kas. (AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad will resume passenger train service at 3 p.m. today with arrival of the first train since April 17 when flooded by the Missouri river.

Freight service was resumed last night on the MOP's Kansas City-Omaha line.

Willie Pep Starts Comeback Tonight

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Former featherweight champion Willie Pep opened a comeback campaign here tonight against bustling young Santiago Gonzalez of Mexico City. Gonzalez has won 60 of his 65 fights, most of them in Mexico, but hasn't met anybody near the class of Pep.

The scheduled 16-round bout should give an idea how far the Willie Pep of today is from the old Pep. It will be his first bout since he lost a title shot to champion Sandy Saddler last September.

TYPICAL WARD WEEK VALUES—HUNDREDS OF ITEMS CUT-PRICED NOW

Looking Backward

PORTY YEARS AGO
L. P. Andrews, manager of the City Water Company, returned from a business visit in St. Louis connected with the local plant.

U. S. Deputy Marshall T. H. McKenna, Jefferson City, was in the city en-route to Hermitage, Hickory County, on business connected with federal activities.

The Rev. W. A. Clamahan and Prof. John P. Gass, superintendent of Sedalia schools, went to Marshall to serve as judges in an intercollegiate debate between Missouri Valley College, Marshall, and Central College, Fayette.

"Jigamaree," musical comedy presented at the Sedalia Theater, attracted a large audience. The first part of the attraction was drills and dances by junior members of the "Y" under direction of William C. Chubb, physical director of the YMCA to which body went the proceeds of the show, offered by local talent.

J. S. Bronneman, publisher of the Sedalia Capital, Charles E. Messery Jr., and Mel Elgenfritz left for St. Louis to attend as delegates the state convention of the Republican party.

Dr. K. R. Barnum was in Kansas City attending a meeting of the Missouri Homeopathic Society in session there three days.

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO
Hobo and Gypsy Day was celebrated by seniors of the Smith-Cotton High School with girls attired as gypsies and the boys in tatters and rags. One youth, riding on a automobile, fell off fracturing two bones in his left forearm.

Installation of officers of the Rotary Club was held at the Sedalia Country Club with a chicken dinner. Clinton Rotarians and Rotary-Anns were guests. Ernest Kenagy was given the gavel as new president.

The Graham Construction Company started the work of grading and travelling of highway No. 5 between Syracuse and Boonville.

Flood pictures taken along the Mississippi river at St. Louis and its tributaries were being shown at the Sedalia Theatre, giving a clear insight into its seriousness.

John S. Sweet, who leased the Bothwell Hotel, to be opened the early part of June, announces securing Mr. and Mrs. Al Tracy to manage the new hostelry. For some time they had been located at Chillicothe.

Paul Ingram, secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, was elected secretary and treasurer of the state group of Chamber of Commerce secretaries at the annual meeting held in Springfield.

Barkley Ducks Issue

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Albert W. Barkley ducked a well-wisher's boost toward political promotion last night.
"I would like to introduce Mr. Barkley at the beginning of 1953 without the first part of his title—without the 'vice,'" said Benjamin G. Browdy, Zionist president, at an Israel bond rally.
"I am not here tonight on any political mission," said Barkley.

HST Won't Change His Mind; He Reversed State Department

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — A lot of people are still speculating that President Truman may change his mind and consent to be drafted by the Democratic national convention at the last minute — especially if the Republicans nominate Taft whom the President does not like.

A close friend of Mr. Truman's who once served under him as an ambassador and accompanied him to Potsdam, had this in mind when he told him that he should not put himself in the position where he could not ultimately be drafted. The situation might be such, this elder statesman cautioned, where the demands of the party would be too compelling.

"You know me," replied the President decisively. "I'm a mule. And when I make up my mind nothing can change it."

Truman's Word Reverberates

Chip Bolen, state department counselor, walked in to the state department staff conference at 12:30 last Thursday with perturbation written over his usually suave visage.

"Hold your hats," he exclaimed, then told how the President had dropped a diplomatic bombshell at his press conference regarding an alleged ultimatum to Russia in 1946. Since our European allies are on constant tenterhooks over our trigger-happy relations with Russia and constantly worry that we will drag them into war by just such an ultimatum, the state department worked for about two hours preparing a diplomatic refutation of the President's off-the-cuff remark.

The state department couldn't say so, but it was equally unhappy about the President's previous burble about the possibility of seizing the press.

Though he corrected this later, the state department feared it might affect the fate of the freest and fairest newspaper in Bolivia, La Razon. The new Bolivian government, which is pro-Argentine and has some Communist links, may well follow the example of Peron and seize La Razon exactly as he seized La Prensa.

U. S. For Free Press

On top of this, American diplomats for some time have been arguing in the United Nations for complete freedom of the press. Not all Latin American governments agree with the United States on this point. Several have joined Middle East and Asiatic countries in trying to get the UN to adopt an amendment which would require newspapers to print statements by governments "correcting" supposedly erroneous news. These amendments, in the opinion of the state department, would be an infringement of the press and could be expanded to mean government interference.

Therefore, when the chief executive of the United States announced that he has the power when he sees fit to take over or control the press, it put him in direct contradiction to his own official representatives abroad.

Remarkably one Latin American editor who had been listening to American delegates argue for international press freedom:
"Maybe the U. S. press had better start worrying about laws to protect itself on the national level rather than on the international level."

Massachusetts Primary

The Massachusetts primary today will be a tougher test of the American voters' intelligence than even that in Nebraska. In Nebraska it was necessary for write-in voters to spell correctly the full name of "Dwight Eisenhower." If they misspelled either name, or used "Ike" instead of "Dwight," their vote was ruled out. The name "Robert Taft" also had to be spelled correctly, but this was a lot easier.

In Massachusetts today, however, voters have to know in advance and memorize the delegates pledged to Eisenhower. Taft's delegates are tagged with the label "pledged to Senator Taft," but Eisenhower's aren't. In fact, his name appears nowhere on the ballot. This is because Massachusetts is a "written consent" state and a candidate's name appears on the ballot only with his written consent.

But what really makes the ballot confusing is that Taft managers have entered a second set of delegates in several districts in order to befuddle the voters and make their memory test more difficult.

Chiang Kai-Shek Knew

Most of the Truman cabinet was caught completely off base when the chief made his dramatic Jackson-Jefferson dinner announcement that he would not run again. But Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek in far-off Formosa had been informed in advance.

On March 25, the generalissimo and Madame Chiang entertained Under Secretary of the Interior Richard Searles at dinner. The generalissimo did not talk much since he does not speak English. But at one point, he leaned toward Searles and, speaking through an interpreter, asked:

"And how is President Truman's health?"

"Fine," replied Searles. "He seemed in excellent health and spirits."

"And what are his plans for reelection?"

"I am convinced he will not run," replied the undersecretary of the interior. "Furthermore, I think he'll announce this on March 29th."

Chiang nodded, smiled, made no comment.

Privately, Chiang is reported to be for Taft, since Taft backed the use of American troops to support Chiang in the Far East, a step much further than any Truman commitment. Being a most astute diplomat, however, Chiang said nothing.

Four days later, March 29, Searles was on a naval vessel and received over the ship's radio a summary of the President's speech at the Jackson-Jefferson dinner. It said nothing about not running again, and Searles went to bed figuring he had misinformed Chiang Kai-Shek. It was not until next morning that the dramatic footnote which Truman tucked on to his speech was flashed across the Pacific.

Smith-Cotton Hi Students Present Rotary Program

The program at the Rotary Club Monday noon at Bothwell Hotel was divided into three sections and was in observance of "Boys' and Girls' Week." The program chairman, the Rev. Glen Lindley, introduced Joe Benson, principal of Smith-Cotton High School, who presented the following program:

First, the commercial department, under the supervision of Miss Edna Snell, gave a demonstration of typing and dictation.

Second, the speech department presented Donald Barnes, who gave his original oration, and Stan Walsh, who gave an extemporaneous speech on "How Can We Improve the Quality of the Candidates for Public Office?"

The third part of the program was by the music department under the direction of Miss Geraldine Teufel, who presented the girls' glee club with Carolyn Stewart at the piano.

The meeting was presided over by the president, F. Emory Bowman, and invocation was by the Rev. Glen Lindley. Fred Brink led the group singing.

Visitors introduced by Harry Brougher were Ernest Ferguson, guest of Ray Lippard, J. C. Dallanback, Champaign, Ill., senior active member of Rotary, R. W. Hollander, Moberly.

Those visiting other clubs the past week were Dr. A. L. Walter, Marce Yucatan, Mexico, Victor Eisenstein, Clinton and Z. Lyle Brown, Marshall.

The program chairman for May will be Arthur Hoffman.

Spring Frolic

The World Today— Washington Like a Circus

WASHINGTON (AP)—You couldn't blame a stranger who wandered into Washington if he thought this place was a cross between Donnybrook Fair and a circus where everyone a head popped up, socked.

If he sat in the Senate gallery this week, watching that enormously dignified body at work, he would have seen it solemnly vote to abolish the RFC, the gigantic government lending agency doing business since depression days.

But it was a slight mistake. That was only the first go-round. The Senate had to cast a final vote. But before it did some of the senators who voted to knock RFC into the bleachers got up and left.

So when the Senate voted again, it voted to keep RFC, all within the space of a few minutes. And if this same visiting stranger had been at President Truman's news conference yesterday he would have been astounded, like everyone else.

The President calmly announced —he said it was the first time the news was being given out—that back in 1945 or 1946 he gave Joe Stalin an ultimatum to get out of Iran.

Since an ultimatum, in diplomatic language, is the last word before war, a White House aide came around to set things straight. The aide explained that the ultimatum wasn't really an ultimatum. He said the U. S. had operated through diplomatic channels to express its displeasure at Russia and besides news of these doings had been published years ago.

Now if the visitor had been here a couple of weeks he would take this in stride, remembering how had thought he had seen everything when he first arrived.

That was the day of the double bombing of Newbold Morris and Atty. Gen. J. Howard McGrath, which came right before the roof fell in with the steel dispute.

The night the President took over the mills the visitor—like everyone else—could have seen him on

Greeks Hold Newsmen For Braking Spy Laws

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Two Athens newspaper publishers have been released from jail to await trial by court martial on a charge they broke Greece's anti-spy laws. They are accused of publishing Army secrets outlining Communist infiltration of the armed services.

The publishers, Alekades Kalathakis of the paper Embros and Nasseos Botas of Acropolis, were arrested a week ago.

The document they printed, a general staff paper, said a reorganized Red underground is spread throughout the armed forces and secret radios in Greece are sending information to neighboring Soviet satellite nations.

THE STORY: A small, unobtrusive man follows Basil Willing into a tobacco shop, objects to the price of a pack of cigarettes, then leaves his change. Then Basil overhauls the man, tells a taxi driver that he is "Dr. Basil Willing." Basil follows the man who is unimpressed, and after his name, but loses him on a street where only one house showed light. Admitted to the house, he finds a party in progress.

BASIL WILLING turned. A man stood nearby, tall, muscular and hardy. His rather full lips were smiling. His blue eyes were alert and amused. "I've been looking forward to this meeting for a long time," he said cordially. "You know me?"

"By a simple process of elimination: all the others are here." The man was still smiling. "Of course, I know you by reputation and . . . Will you excuse me a moment? I see my sister is growing impatient."

"But . . ." Basil was left alone. A woman's voice spoke at his elbow imperiously. "I've been expecting you for the last half hour."

She sat in a wing chair close to the smouldering fire. Her hair was white; her eyes, deep-set in discolored sockets; her mouth, drawn. Only the eyes themselves—large, dark, lustreless—hinted at what she might have been in her youth. One hand held an ebony stick with an ivory handle.

"I think you've made a mistake," began Basil.

"Mistake?" She was displeased. Veins as violet as her dress stood out like earthworms coiled under the skin of the hand that clenched the stick. "Your voice is different tonight. Not at all the way I usually sound."

"And I'm sure I look different, too," said Basil.

Again she interrupted. "Are you less given. 'You don't remember me? No matter!' Soft laughter underlined her next words. 'We are all supposed to know each other.'"

AGAIN the tone implied a double meaning that escaped him. Something seemed to stir in that part of memory below the threshold of consciousness, but he couldn't bring it to the surface. "Why shouldn't I be here?"

"Well, I've always associated you with the other side of the fence."

"What fence, Rosamund?"

She was serious now. "So you do remember me?"

"Who could forget Rosamund Finlay?"

"Yet we met only a few times. Before the war, wasn't it? So much has happened since. For one thing, I'm no longer Rosamund Finlay."

"You're married?" He was sur-

"You don't remember me? No matter!" Soft laughter underlined her words. "We are all supposed to know each other."

"No." It was Rosamund's turn to be puzzled. "Only the people you see here now."

"Then I'll have to ask you to excuse me while I explain to my host."

"Dr. Zimmer? Better not interrupt him while he's talking to Miss Shaw."

Basil looked down the long room. The man who had welcomed him while he was approaching the blind woman still beside the fire. "Miss Shaw?"

"Don't you know her?" Rosamund was disconcerted. "I thought she came to you when you came here."

"She mistook me for someone else," said Basil. "I didn't even know her name."

"She is Katherine Shaw," explained Rosamund. "Very old,

Reckless Horseback Riding Is Charged

NEW YORK (AP)—Two young Englishmen charged with reckless horseback riding in Brooklyn's Prospect Park were free men today because of a friendly judge.

Police told Magistrate's Court yesterday that the two men, Peter Laker, 25 and Clifford Lister, 24, both agents of the Cunard steamship line, were clocked galloping at 25 miles an hour through the park.

Protested Lister: "The Beast I was riding was well into his eighth year and if we were doing 20 miles an hour it was a bit of a miracle."

Care dismissed," ruled Magistrate Matthew F. Fagan, "in the interest of international friendship."

Nine-Ton Blast

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A nine-ton magazine of explosives blew up in a gunpowder factory here but no one was killed.

False Teeth Save Him When Shot In Mouth

NEW YORK (AP)—The manager of a Rockefeller Center restaurant, shot in the mouth by a young bandit who escaped with about $225, was minus several false teeth today but otherwise virtually unhurt.

Roosevelt Hospital reported the manager, John Hudson, 46, suffered only a superficial wound in the holdup last night, apparently because his false teeth stopped the bullet.

Ambassador Robbed

NEW YORK (AP)—A burglar who broke into the hotel room of Shiek Asad al Fach, Saudi Arabian ambassador to the U.S., took jewelry worth about $2,700, police reported last night. The ambassador was here on a visit from Washington, D.C.

Men Looking For Highway Under Snow

WHITEFISH, Mont. (P) — Sun-burned men in snowplows and bulldozers are looking for a highway they can't see.

They know where it should be, but they won't be sure until they've dug through thousands of tons of snow.

George Beaton, Ray Price and their crews have started the annual battle to open Going-to-the-Sun Highway, 6,000 feet up in Montana's Glacier National Park.

Going-to-the-Sun seems to do just that, twisting up across the crooked spine of the Rocky Mountains. At one point, the highway is only a scratch on the Garden Wall—a jagged, almost perpendicular peak.

From September to June, the highway is out of sight—buried under snowdrifts 70 feet deep.

The road-clearing teams are equipped with rotary snowplows and bulldozers. Each team has a sharp-eyed "slide-watcher" to make sure an avalanche doesn't push them over a precipice.

On level ground, the plows' whirling blades chew through 1,500 tons of snow an hour. Along the deep-drifted Garden Wall, the bulldozers have to pitch in.

Up on the Wall, Beaton and Price are forced to dig down the snow until they find the yellow highway signs. That's the only way they can find the road. The bulldozers then start shoving tons of snow over the cliffs along the road until the drifts are a size the plows can handle.

The biggest drift usually lies a quarter mile east of Logan Pass where the highway crosses the Continental Divide. The snow there is often 70 feet deep for stretches of 600 feet or more.

Clearing it takes a five-man crew five days. While they're working, the slide-watcher looks for loosening snow on the steep slopes above the road. He holds a cord tied to the rotary operator's arm. The man in the plow can't hear warning shouts above the roar of the engine and he can't see over the white drifts.

At the first sign of a slide, the watcher jerks the cord and both men run for cover.

180 HP CHRYSLER V-8 FIRST IN 3 CLASSES IN ECONOMY RUN!

Here is truly dramatic proof that Chrysler's great new FirePower 180 HP V-8 engine design sets an entirely new standard of efficiency among American passenger car engines!

In this annual economy test, rigidly supervised, and limited strictly to stock car entrants, cars competing are divided, by price and size, into 11 standard classes. The route, from Los Angeles to Sun Valley, covered 1,415 miles of every possible kind of driving. Average speed for all cars was just under 41 miles per hour.

And in 3 of the 11 classes, the Chrysler V-8 engine was best for gasoline mileage.

In Class "F", this magnificent new engine won first place for a Saratoga 6-passenger sedan (125½-inch wheelbase, 4010 pounds). In Class "H", it won first honors for a Saratoga model 8-passenger sedan (139½-inch wheelbase, 4510 pounds). And in the top price and size, Class "I", it was again first, in a Chrysler

Rice Price Increases

SINGAPORE (P) — The Singapore government — conscious of political potentialities of rice and concerned at the recent rise in price of staple food of Asians—has taken steps to prevent further price increases.

It has appointed a three-man committee to consider ways of keeping the price of rice down and to study the best propaganda methods to encourage the eating of substitutes.

Rice, mainly obtained from Siam by the government, is rationed. The Siamese government recently increased the price, necessitating a retail price increase.

Little League Picks 42 Boys For Big Test

There are 42 happy boys in Sedalia today, for that number passed the first Little League tryout test held Monday evening at Housel Park. These 8, 9 and 10-year-olds were chosen from the 250 hopefuls which reported for the first "down to earth" activity of this most worthwhile juvenile project sponsored by the Rotary, Kiwanis, Jaycee and Elks Clubs.

On Wednesday evening at 5:30 the 11-year-old group will run through a similar session with the 12-year-old test scheduled for Friday at the same time.

Managers Well Pleased
The four team managers, Geo. Thompson, Cecil Dump, George Ray and Paul Mines, were in accord in their praise of the youthful aspirants. They stated the ability of the boys assured Sedalia of fine baseball and expressed surprise at the polish of the group as a whole. When the older talent joins the league's "babies" the success of the program "is certain."

After the initial squad cuts this week the final player's pool of 60 performers will be selected next Monday. Approximately 40 boys from each age group will try out.

The Lucky 42

All Sedalians interested in baseball are urged to attend Little League practices and encourage the youngsters.

Williams' Day On Wednesday At BoSox Park

BOSTON — Temperamental Ted Williams and Boston's rabid Red Sox rooters have scrapped Williams' day and the fans plan a rousing and sentimental sendoff for the Marine Corps-bound slugger.

Williams has heard jeers aplenty — sprinkled lightly with cheers — in his years with the Soxers. But this season the boos have been drowned out by the applause in his few appearances.

The lanky home run belter — who starts a duty tour of at least 17 months as a flying Marine captain Friday in Willow Grove, Pa. — didn't want any big observance for his farewell but the movement just mushroomed.

He hasn't seen much 1952 action, having suffered a pulled tendon in his left leg while sliding in last season's opener in Washington. But he has seen service as a pinch-hitter and has been accorded a great reception by the fans.

Williams probably will be playing his final game (for the Red Sox tomorrow). He'll be 34 next Oct. 30 and will miss both the 1952 and 1953 seasons, making him an old man by baseball standards in 1954. A comeback then might be too tough to attempt.

Clinton Defeated
By Elm Hills Club
The Elm Hills Golf team Sunday defeated the Clinton Country Club golfers in a tournament played at Elm Hills.

Bernard Stanfield was medalist for the day with a 69. Scott of Clinton was runner-up with a total of 74.

Fourteen players from each club participated in the tournament. A return match is to be played at Clinton this Sunday afternoon.

CATCH AS CATCHER CAN—Despite a graceful slide, Washington's Irv Noren was out at home as Boston Catcher Gus Niarhos slapped the ball on him after taking a peg from Red Sox Outfielder Faye Throneberry in the third inning of a game at Boston. Noren tried to score after Mickey Vernon flied to Throneberry in right field. The Senators won, 3-2. (NEA)

Sports Roundup—

Ezzard Charles, No Longer Champ, Begins New Training

NEW YORK — Ezzard Charles, who is not the heavyweight champion any more, begins training on Thursday for a fight with Jersey Joe Walcott at Philadelphia on June 6.

Walcott now holds the title, having knocked out Charles in a battle at Pittsburgh in July of last year. This will come as a surprise to many fans who were away on vacation at the time and who still recognize Ezzard as the champ.

They say Walcott has made less out of the crown than any champion of the modern era, possibly barring Primo Carnera, who was not permitted by his managers to open a checking account. The old pappy fighter has, however, made scores of appearances at charitable institutions and before church groups and has in general worn his laurels well, if anonymously.

Tigers Lose 2-4 to Jays

The Smith-Cotton Tigers fell victim of a first inning four-run rally staged by the Jefferson City Jays in their night contest at the Capital City, Monday, losing 4-2.

Tigers Score First
The Tigers scored first in the opening stanza when Lane singled and a two base error on the hit made by Don Long, Jay outfielder and another error by Jim McCarty, Jay first baseman, let the run in. Joe Kretschmer put out the fire when he struck out Mines, the Tiger catcher.

Kretschmer after that first inning threat was in trouble only once, that being in the top of the seventh when the Tigers Carl Miller tapped one over Walz head in left field with one out. Billy Deak and Sonny Thomas drew walks, putting Miller on third. Schulz popped up to Roberts, the Jay catcher. Larry Mines drew a free ticket on four balls, forcing in Miller. Floyd Burton ended the threat by striking out.

Routh on Arnold
It was a rough first inning on Arnold, who was touched for four hits, by Walz, Holliday, Kretschmer and a double by McCarty. In that inning Long was out, Rector popped to Arnold and Hord fanned.

Kretschmer had a tight team backing him up. He got out of the game allowing but three hits and two runs, while teammates gave up three errors. Arnold's backing was also tight-knit with the boys giving up two errors, while Arnold was touched for nine hits and four runs.

The game evened the Jays and Tigers in wins. Last week the Smith-Cotton boys took the first tilt 1-0.

SAIGH MAY NOT COME TO TRIAL UNTIL FALL

ST. LOUIS — Fred M. Saigh, St. Louis Cardinals owner charged with evading $49,420 in income taxes, may not come to trial until late fall or early winter.

Saigh's arraignment was postponed yesterday until May 23 on the request of his attorney, H. M. Stolar.

Principal reason for the expected delay is that the docket of U. S. District Judge Roy W. Harper, to whom the case was assigned, is crowded with 11 other tax evasion cases, a perjury case and four criminal cases.

East vs. West For First Time This Season

The critical period is at hand today for major league rookies as Eastern and Western teams clash for the first time in the infant 1952 season.

Within the next fortnight the strategists must decide on the players they will retain for the long haul.

The ax will fall from now until May 15, the final day of trimming the rosters to the required 25 players.

The battle for survival among the greenhorns and the early season upstarts—the St. Louis Browns, Boston Red Sox, Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs—will command the fans' attention during the next 10 days.

Whether the four teams are "morning glories" or pennant contenders should be determined during this first extended road trip of the campaign.

American League teams invade the East, hoping that the rain which has kept the clubs on the Atlantic Seaboard in drydock for virtually a week, will subside. Meanwhile, the National League's Eastern teams gladly left their water-logged parks for the West.

Manager Roger Hornsby's St. Louis Browns head the Eastern invasion. Their first port of call is the Yankee Stadium. The Browns, boasting a 7-3 record, have what many believe will be the rookie of the year in Jim Rivera, 29-year-old outfielder up from Seattle.

Lefty Bob Cain (2-0) has been selected to pitch against the Yanks' Vic Raschi (2-0) today. Cain, a Yankee tamer of note, has allowed only one run in 18 innings.

Boston's frisky Red Sox entertain the resurgent Detroit Tigers while Cleveland's highly regarded Indians invade Philadelphia and the Chicago White Sox last year's spring sensations, take on the Senators in Washington.

The Yanks will say goodbye today to Gerry Coleman, their popular second baseman and the league's top hitter, and the Red Sox will bid adieu to Ted Williams, their slugging left fielder tomorrow. Both Coleman and Williams depart to return to the Marine air arm on May 2.

In the National League, Brooklyn's pace-setting Dodgers clash with the Cards in a night game at St. Louis while New York is at Cincinnati, Philadelphia at Chicago and Boston at Pittsburgh.

In the only game played yesterday, the Cubs shaded the Cards, 4-3, under the lights at St. Louis. Hank Sauer drove in all of Chicago's runs, two on a first-inning homer. Harry Brecheen, former Cub tormenter, was the loser.

Big and Little Derby Hopefuls Meeting Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The giant and the midjet of the 78th Kentucky Derby, both financially and physically, meet for the first time in the mile of the $10,000 added Derby Trial at Churchill Downs tomorrow. He is the first-inning homer, Harry Brecheen, former Cub tormenter, was the loser.

Who will ride the little Iowa horse on Saturday is question. In fact it is a question whether he'll be among those parading to the post while the band plays "My Old Kentucky Home." It all depends on today's race.

Paper that is strong when wet as well as when dry is made of the ordinary cellulose paper-making fiber to which a melamine-formaldehyde resin is added. After the material has been formed into a felt, heat is applied to cure the resin.

One of the 11 is Gift Silver, a mite of a horse owned by Odie Newell, an Ottumwa, Ia., railroad engineer.

Unlike Hill Gail, this little product of an Iowa equine romance never has heard the roar of a crowd such as will greet today's winner.

US Courts Convict 100 Spies In Reich

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—U.S. courts in Germany have convicted at least 100 spies hired by Czechoslovakia and other Communist countries to spy on Allied forces.

Chief Justice William Clark thinks most of these spies "were just a waste of Communist time and money." He doubts—on the basis of trial evidence—that they obtained much information endangering the Allies or of value to the Kremlin.

As head of the U.S. High Commission Court of Appeals in Germany, Clark has handled many of these spy cases.

It looks to him, he says, as though "Soviet Russia apparently has assigned Czechoslovakia the job of spying in West Germany for all the Communist nations and the Czechs appear to be blundering badly."

"Most of these spies," he said, "don't know what to look for and they are getting caught doing it."

"Most of the information they try to sneak back behind the Iron Curtain could be got by reading the newspapers. Why the Communists waste time and money on these spies I don't know."

Spies have been caught with maps which can be bought at news stands. U.S. Army circulars which are widely distributed, records of ship arrivals at Bremerhaven, where anyone can see the ships come in, and drawings of highway bridges which thousands of motorists cross daily.

Spies don't make a lot of money. Clark said evidence indicates the average pay is only 500 marks ($119) a month.

Truman's Visit 'Met.' Enjoy Hearing 'Aida'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Harry S. Truman took her husband to the opera last night. He seemed to like it fine.

The Trumans—the President's wife is the boxholder of the family—joined a first-night audience of 3,400 at the Metropolitan Opera Company's glittering performance of "Aida," marking the return of the "Met" to Washington after a 31-year absence.

And the first family joined enthusiastically in the waves of applause that swept the Capitol Theater for magnificent sets, spectacular ensembles and glowing performances by Zinka Milanov, Mario del Monaco and others on a stage too small for the purpose.

Men folk, in a tradition kept alive by comic strips, are supposed to hate opera. Not Harry Truman. After all, he has a daughter in the singing business.

The President leaned well back in his box seat, rested an arm comfortably on the brass rail and gave every evidence of thoroughly enjoying Verdi's finest work.

It was a little hot in the jam-packed theater. Mrs. Truman, wearing a sleeveless gray gown, on one occasion took the handkerchief from the breast pocket of her husband's dinner jacket and gave him a shining face and a few wife-like pats.

Car Owners Must Show Tax Receipt To Get New License

Ben P. Robinson, deputy license commissioner for Pettis County, states that there is still some misunderstanding in the new law governing the purchase or renewal of state automobile licenses.

House bill No. 211, signed by Governor Smith and effective April 22, 1952, reads as follows: "Section 1. No state registration license to operate any motor vehicle in this state shall be issued unless the application for license is accompanied by a tax receipt or a statement certified by the county or township collector, of the county or township in which the applicant's property was assessed, showing that the state and county tangible personal property taxes for the preceding year have been paid by the applicant or that no such taxes were due."

In short, this means that you must show proof that your state and county personal property taxes have been paid before a state automobile license can be purchased or renewed.

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda published a vitriolic, half-page blast today at the International Red Cross, which the United States had proposed should investigate Communist charges that U.S. troops are waging germ warfare in Korea.

The Communist party newspaper termed the Red Cross an "obedient weapon in the hands of the State Department" and said the U.S. proposal for the inquiry was an "attempt to cover up the crimes of the American interventionists in Korea and China."

Soviet U.N. Delegate Jacob A. Malik told the U.N. Disarmament Commission last month that the Red Cross is not an international organization and is not competent to make an impartial inquiry into the Communist charges against the United States.

Shelly Winters Weds Vittorio Gassman

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP)—Transatlantic movie lovers Shelley Winters and Vittorio Gassman honeymooned today after a whirlwind Mexican divorce and marriage which freed the handsome Italian actor from his first wife and hitched him to Shelley.

The two ceremonies took place an hour and a half apart, during the divorce hearing Shelly sat in a car outside the Courthouse polishing her nails.

Seoul Refugees Hope First For Enough Food This Year

SEOUL (AP)—Mild spring weather finds the nearly one million South and North Korean war refugees bustling out of their underground shelters to tents and straw huts, miserable but hopeful.

To get three square meals daily rather than two bowls of porridge is their immediate hope. The doctrines of democracy and communism do not concern too much the refugees who have patiently endured cold, hunger, poverty and disease.

Col. Charles R. Munske of Brook-

Ezio Pinza Not a Lover

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ezio Pinza, the heartbeats of the dowagers, is back in Hollywood for another try at the movies. But this time he doesn't want to be typed as a lover.

"Naturally, producers thought of me only in terms of being a lover, after my role in 'South Pacific,'" he remarked. "But I don't always want to play romance. There aren't enough love stories as good as 'South Pacific.'"

The famed basso played romantic roles in his first two starring roles at MGM. He frankly admitted that the pictures were not successful.

"It is like dealing with the writers on my television show," he remarked. "They bring you the first script and you say you cannot do it. You tell them how you want it and they go back and rewrite. But they are so in love with what they have written that they do not change it much. Finally, after several rewrites, you may get something like what you want to do."

"In the movies, you cannot get them to change, even though you show them the script is wrong."

"In 'Mr. Imperium,' they started with a very old-fashioned story. Nobody could believe in it. Also, I think it was a mistake to cast me with such a young-looking girl as Lana Turner. I think I should be playing opposite a Barbara Stanwyck or somebody like that."

"I was not quite so dissatisfied with 'Slightly Dishonorable.' But the picture suffered because they had me playing a good guy in the first half of the picture and a bad guy in the second half."

Pinza added that he did not sign again with the studio that made the two films, MGM.

"They sent me the contract, but I would not sign it," he said. "They would not allow me to tear up the contract if I did not like the script. I will sign no more options for pictures. The studio has all the option, and I have none."

The middle-aged heart-throber gets a departure from his romantic roles in his current film, "Tonight We Sing." He portrays Feodor Chaliapin, the noted Russian basso. It's a sentimental role for Pinza, who was once hailed as "the young Chaliapin." Pinza sang in minor roles while the older singer was starring at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Duane Bowers' Car Damaged In Accident

In a three-car collision Sunday morning, eight miles east of Warrensburg on Highway 30, a 1949 Crosley car driven by Duane R. Bowers, Sedalia, was damaged but fortunately all occupants of the cars escaped injury.

The Bowers car, according to a report of State Trooper S. S. Abney, broke down and a Kansas City Negro, Ernest Williams, in a 1946 Chevrolet, the report said, pulled alongside and a third car driven by Williams' brother, Clint Williams, following close behind crashed into both cars.

Damage to the Crosley was estimated at $100; to the '46 Chevrolet $100 and to the 1951 car driven by Clint Williams at $200.

A charge of careless and reckless driving was filed in magistrate court at Warrensburg Monday against Clint Williams.

Oklahoma Democrats Give Votes to Kerr

The action was taken at the party's state convention.

It was Kerr's first full state bloc of votes and boosted his total to 332.

The 36-man Democratic delegation, casting fractional votes each, will stay with Kerr unless he is majority of the group decides he is out of the running. They will vote under the unit rule with each of 20 delegates-at-large casting one vote and each of 16 elected by districts casting $\frac{1}{2}$ vote.

Russia Says Japs Indifferent to Peace

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda reported today that the Japanese people are completely indifferent to their new peace treaty, which Russia refused to sign.

All Soviet papers briefly reported the treaty had come into effect and all indicated they felt the pact would result in no change in the occupation regime in Japan.

Marilyn Monroe Has Appendectomy Monday

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Marilyn Monroe must wait four or five weeks before undertaking the strenuous roller skating, swimming and auto accident scenes required for her next movie.

The buxom beauty lost her appendix yesterday and her doctor said she'll have to take it easy for awhile. Result: Filming of her picture has been suspended pending her recovery.

Hitler Pal Asks Return As Citizen

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Dr. Otto Strasser, the former henchman of Adolf Hitler who fled the Reich for his life in 1933, is asking the West German Constitutional Court to give him back his German citizenship.

An exile in Canada, Strasser for six years has waged a stubborn fight to re-enter German politics.

He complains that West German authorities "do everything to prevent my return, knowing very well that in a few years time, we would be the strongest party in Germany."

Strasser's extremist followers here call themselves the "League for Germany's Revival." He directs them by remote control.

Strasser's court action is based on Article 116 of the West German Constitution which says that former German nationals can be re-naturalized on request—if they were deprived of citizenship during the Hitler regime on racial, religious or political grounds.

A court ruling is expected in a short time. Meanwhile the league is busy distributing circular letters from Chairman Strasser and Deputy Chairman Waldemar Wadtsack, a grey-haired Munich tax advisor.

Wadtsack, who became a leader of Strasser's "Black Front" after the split with Hitler, predicts Strasser will return to Germany soon.

"The Nazis working in the Bonn Foreign Office fear Strasser's knowledge (about the Nazi party) and, of course, they fear Strasser as a politician," Wadtsack claims.

"This fight is the Dreyfus case of the 20th century."

The league's policy is "strictly national," Wadtsack admits, although "we recognize the West German Constitution."

Allied authorities in Bonn repeatedly have emphasized Strasser is banned from Germany and are confident of keeping him out. But this may be difficult after conclusion of the Allied-German "peace contract."

Documenting their distaste for Strasser, Allied officials quote the following passages from Strasser's postwar circular letters:

"Even if five or 10 million Germans would be killed in a third world war, Germany's position would be strengthened because the number of Russians, Americans, French and Poles killed would be far greater."

"If a war should break out, the Allies most probably would exert strong pressure upon the Germans. But we have to survive and every means by which you adapt yourselves to the Allies is justified because it serves the re-establishment of a new German Reich. We'll speak Russian in the East and English in the West, but our hearts will always remain German."

Florida Editors Pick Russell Over Kefauver

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell's Deep South traditions and solid official support should give him a clean victory over Sen. Estes Kefauver in their Florida presidential popularity poll May 6 in the opinion of the state's newspapers.

Editors and political writers from 31 daily and 10 weekly newspapers participated in an Associated Press survey. They gave their estimates of comparative Russell and Kefauver strength in counties which have three-fourths of the state's registered vote.

The consensus gave Russell 55.2 per cent, Kefauver 41.7 per cent. Two political unknowns from Miami were conceded the few remaining votes.

Celeste Holm Wins Divorce From 'Hater'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Celeste Holm won a divorce from publicist A. Schuyler Dunning after testifying that he told her he hated her.

She was awarded custody of their son Daniel, 51 a month token support and title to their Brentwood home.

Miss Holm told the court yesterday that last September her husband asked her for a divorce, saying: "Much as I loved you once, I hate you now."

They were married in New York in 1946.

High Court Rules Children Can Leave School for Church

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court says it's not illegal—under the Constitution—to let children out of public schools for religious training programs.

By a 6-3 decision the court yesterday upheld the validity of New York State's "released time" program, under which pupils are released from classes and one hour each week. They go to religious centers away from the school to receive sectarian religious instruction of their parents' choice.

Film on Blood, From Donor to Military. To Be Shown In City

The Pettis County chapter, American Red Cross, will show a film, "There is No Substitute," at the Fifth Street Methodist Church Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. with Bert O. Hathaway as narrator.

This film shows the complete process from the time the donor arrives at the place of operation to give a pint of blood, through the processing at the laboratory and the transporting of the blood to the military. Any donor will be interested in seeing what happens to his pint of blood.

Organizations, industry, business, residence and the county have been urged to send representatives, and all others interested are invited to attend. There is no charge, and the audience will serve coffee following the showing of the film.

Warns Barbiturate Perils

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Barbiturate addiction is far more dangerous than addiction to morphine and similar drugs, a University of Texas scientist says.

Illegal sales by unscrupulous pharmacists and peddlers are making the drug readily available, Dr. C. O. Wilson, professor of pharmaceutical chemistry, reports.

Dr. Wilson describes addicts as persons with personality disorders who begin using barbiturates to induce sleep. Ultimately they must increase dosage to sleep, and then they start using the drugs to induce an intoxication similar to alcohol.

During withdrawal after intoxication, the chronic addict suffers severe weakness and tremor and hands and face, he explains. These are followed by convulsions indistinguishable from the worst form of epilepsy and hallucinations.

Hal Boyle's Column-- Married American Men Eye Law Debated In Parliament

NEW YORK (AP)—Many American married men are taking a great secret interest in the fate of a proposed law being debated in Britain's parliament.
The law would give British wives a legal right to a fair share of their husband's income.
You understand, old bean, things are done differently in America and Britain. Here the average wife can get everything in her husband's pocket by force of arms, language or tears.
But over there the Englishman holds to the old-fashioned idea he is still the king of the cottage. What's his is his. And what is his wife's? Well, whatever he decides to give her.
Naturally, the Englishman wants to do the sporting thing by her—fair play and all that, y'know. But what with the pub prices being what they are, and say a man's had a bad fortnight at the dart board—"well, old girl, chin up, you'll just have to skimp along with the shillings that are left."
The master of the house gets the lord's share of the pay cheque and the wife has to eke out her tea and crumpets as best she can on her marital dole.
Often British husbands won't even tell the old girl how much they really earn, figuring it really isn't any of her business.
Dr. Edith Summerskill says this is "stupid, because there is no more certain way of alienating a woman's affection." She is author of the proposed new law that would enable British wives to go into court and force their husbands to divvy up their take-home pay.
British men might be amazed to learn that probably most American husbands heartily hope parliament passes the law. They would probably regard it as masculine traitorism on the part of their Yankee cousins.
But actually it is a step in self-protection, a bold new bid for domestic liberty on the part of the American male. Here is a summary of the views I heard expressed by a group of husbands here who discussed the proposal.
"The way I see it," said one mustached mouse, "is this: If Parliament gives British women a break, maybe we can get Congress to pass a law forcing our wives over here to let us have a fair share of our paychecks."
"What I don't see is how Englishmen manage to keep the size of their salaries secret," marveled another husband. "My wife makes me bring home my paycheck in my mouth. Sometimes I don't even know myself what I'm making."
"I know what you mean," remarked a third. "I have to deliver my check unopened, too. The last time I hit my boss up for a raise, he said: 'Why, I've given you two in the last six months.' First I'd heard about it. When I asked my wife, she told me: 'I didn't want it to go to your head, Junior.'"

"You guys ought to learn to put your foot down," bragged a fourth husband. "I tell my wife every morning she either has to give me a dollar or I won't go to work. She forks out, too."

The others shook their heads at this bravery and agreed nothing so foolhardy would work with their wives.

Finally a white-haired old veteran of 40 years of marital warfare said:

"Boys, let's quit kidding ourselves. No matter what Parliament does for wives in Britain, Congress wouldn't dare do a thing for husbands here. They'd be too afraid of their own wives."

"No, in America men have lost their battle for the freedom of the paycheck."

"Today our wives and the government are fighting a tug-of-war for it. All a husband can do is sit on the sidelines and holler, 'On wife! On government!' Whoever wins—well, it won't be us."

Blind Man Rescues Woman From Gas
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—World War II vet, made what he called "the luckiest visit" of his life yesterday.

He stopped in to chat with his friend, Miss Lucy Mahoche, 30, clerk in a neighborhood cleaning shop. He heard a weak call for help and recognized the voice.

Smelling gas, he groped his way around until he found the motionless body of his friend. He dragged her to the street.

Rescue squad workers said Miss Mahoche had been overcome by illuminating gas. She was treated and discharged from a hospital.

Both were rescued by a passing tug, however. They were taken to a hospital where they were reported in good condition.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Beatrice French, 34.

Workers Battle Worst Flood Crisis In Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Thousands of workers battled Utah's worst flood crisis in history today, attempting to control surging streams fed by melting snow.

The flood waters knocked out a railroad bridge, ripped out a dam, drove families from their homes, blocked highway traffic and continued to spread over farmlands.

The Utah floods form a patchwork pattern. It's quite unlike the Midwest floods where a major river or knooks out levees along miles of its course. In Utah, several rivers and creeks are hammering at scattered areas. Other regions are free of floods.

Streets in Salt Lake City were sandbagged into emergency canals to carry off the overflow from several canyons to the east in the Wasatch Mountains.

The Jordan River, carrying the West Side Salt Lake City runoff into the Great Salt Lake spilled over its banks near the Salt Lake County fairgrounds.

"This is the most dangerous flood situation the city has ever faced," said City Engineer Roy W. McLeese. "It's anybody's guess whether we can continue to control it."

Weary workers received one assist early today. Temperatures dropped in Northern Utah and a cool wind raced in from the north.

Two major breaks and several minor ones in Salt Lake City allowed water to spill out of the canal. A large West Side section was covered with water.

A railroad bridge washed out near Provo.

Mud slides in Cottonwood Canyon broke a water line leading to Fairview. Bear River whipped over its banks near Amalgam and Benson. An emergency was declared in Nephi as Salt Creek threatened the city. A slide in Wellsville Canyon blocked U.S. 91. Large sections of Spanish Fork and Springville are flooded. A bridge was washed out near Duchesne.

Scores of families have been evacuated including about 35 in Coalville and at least 55 in Salt Lake City.

He is reported as improved. Leroy Perkins, Kansas City, arrived for a visit with home folk.

Mrs. Flora Choplin, Independence, Brown, Hanline, Sedalia, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pippin.

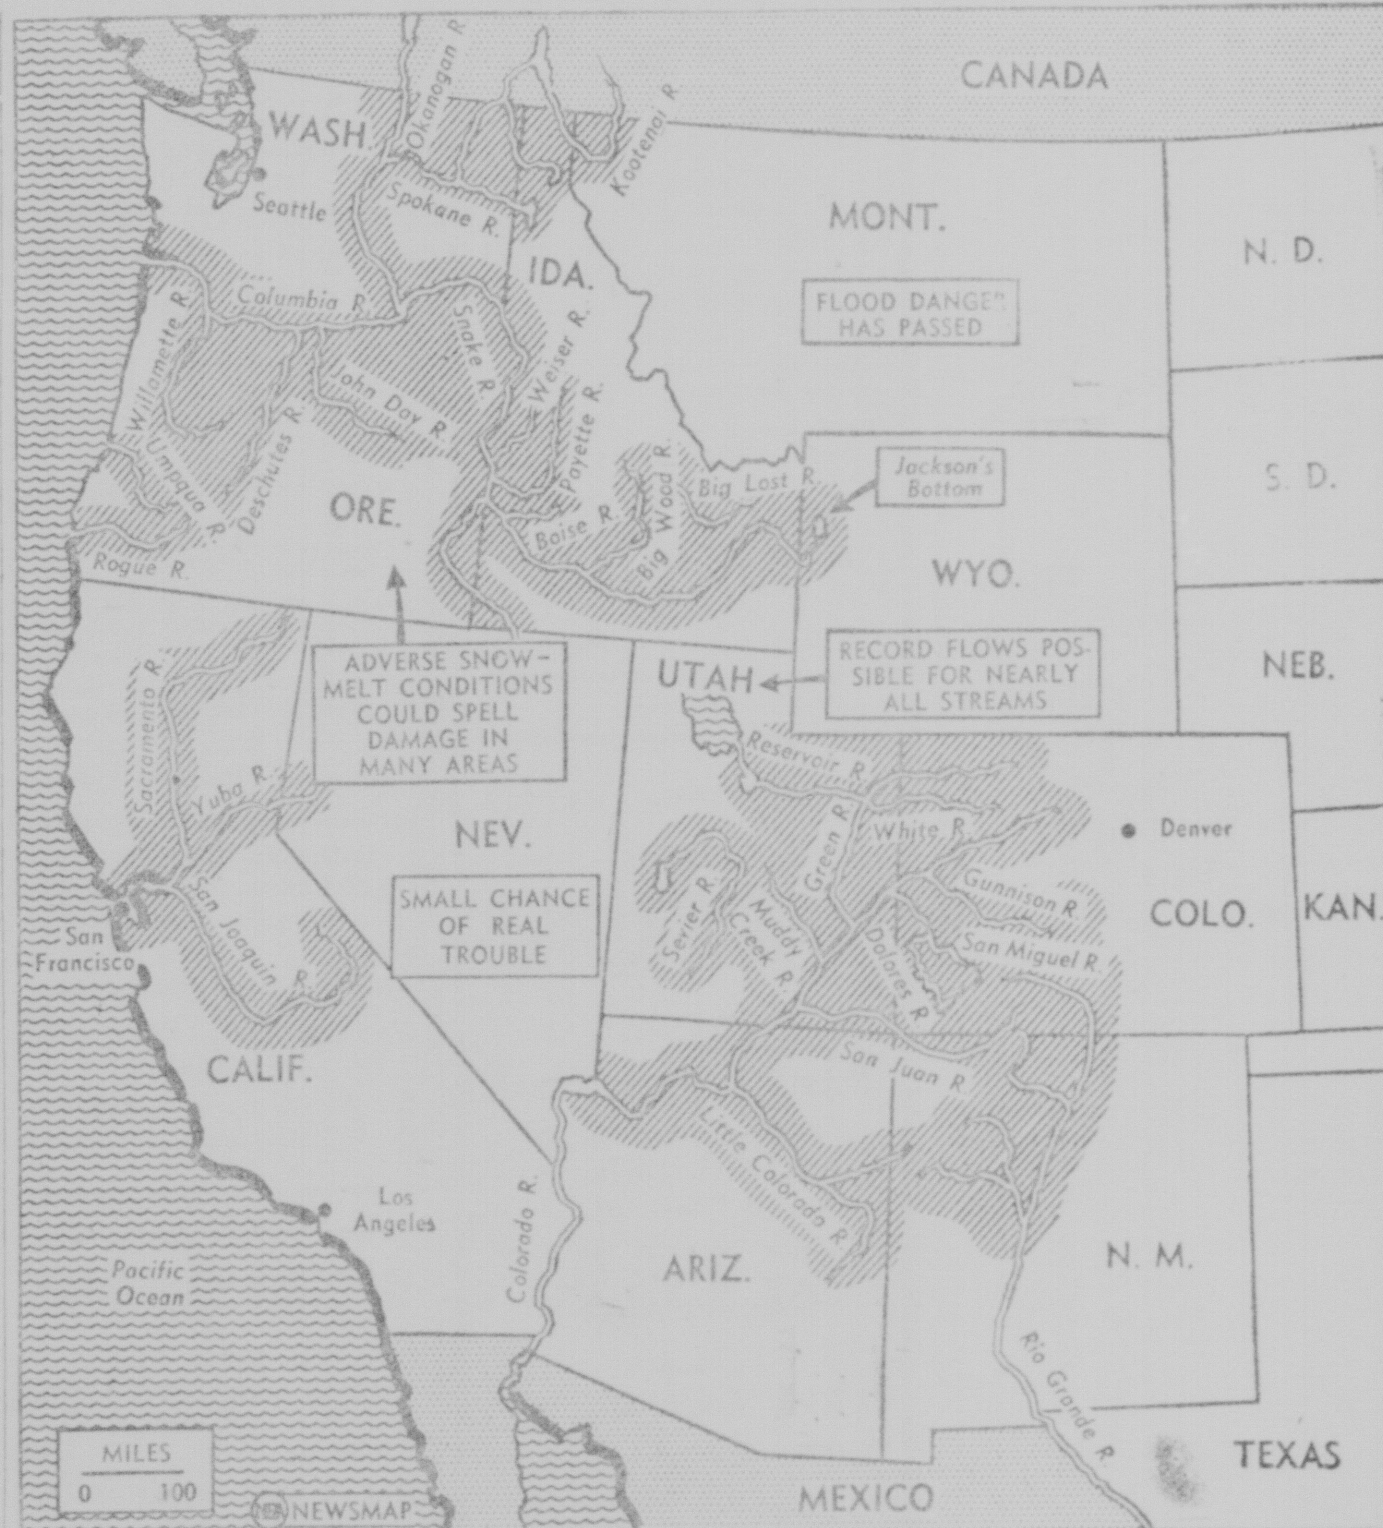

Mrs. Velma Rice and daughter, Mrs. Hertzog and two children, Lee's Summit, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rogers and Mrs. Mary Ellis entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ted Orgo, Springfield, with a 6 o'clock dinner Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fry and daughter, Paola, Kan., visited last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Cook.

FLOODS FACE WESTERN STATES—Record-breaking mountain snow packs from Canada to Arizona threaten Western states with floods on a score of rivers, according to the Department of Agriculture's annual spring water forecast. Shading on Newsmap above indicates rivers likely to be flooded by the heavy snow-water runoff expected. For California, where greatest snow melt in 22 years is predicted, and other states, a cheerful note is the prospect of abundant 1952 irrigation water supplies.

Lush Seller's Market Fading, Business Must Start Doing Selling

WASHINGTON (AP)—Business leaders were advised today that lush seller's markets are fading and industry again must "start selling—or else."

This word was delivered to the 40th annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce by Al. N. Seares, vice president and director of General Sales Service, Remington Rand, Inc., New York. "American business must create productive jobs or else the political powers will produce boondoggles," Seares told the 3,000 businessmen-delegates.
